A TRUE INDIE FILM FESTIVAL 2ND ANNUAL DIRECTOR'S CHAIR FILM FEST

(STATEN ISLAND, NY) – What does Sundance, Tribeca and Staten Island have in common? They all have film festivals.

The Director's Chair Film Festival, in its second year, is a true showcase for independent work, and this year will feature writers and directors from both NY and LA to help spur indie projects.

“There's nothing better than to connect indie-lovers with indie-makers than with a free Film Festival,” said Kimbra , of Skardykat Productions. “The Director's Chair Film Festival is fresh, fun and interactive, with live call-in during the telecast.”

The Director's Chair Film Festival 2007 will take place October 4, 5, 6, and 7 at Staten Island Community Television, located 100 Cable Way, Staten Island, NY and will air live on Channel 57 for 26 hours across the weekend.

The Director's Chair Film Festival 2007 is presented by locatestock.com, produced by Skare-dykat Productions in conjunction with Staten Island Community Television and Kenneth Paul Media.

A special feature of this year's Film Festival will be a script writing contest. The winners will be selected by Richard Matheson, Craig Spector, Jack Ketchum and Preston Sturges Jr., Hollywood's best screenwriters. For more information about the writers log on to:

Saturday October 6th will start off with refreshments, book signings and an open panel discussion “From Dream to Screen” where the writers will discuss a variety of topics, including understanding the relationship between the written word and human experience; the role of writing in the making of motion pictures; setting up a successful writing routine and sticking to it; how to pitch your script; what to expect in today's industry; and more.

Guests will get to meet with industry writers and discuss all aspects of filmmaking. Saturday night will spotlight musical guests “The Thoughts that Kill” and “SMASH-CUT”.

Sunday October 7th will be a day of films and the awards ceremony will be held at 5:30pm, also broadcast LIVE on channel 57.

The Director's Chair Film Festival spotlights new talent and seasoned filmmakers on small budgets.”
